FATHERS, SONS ENJOY BANQUET

State Supervisor and Wisconsin Editor Give Inspiring Talks.

That the fourth annual father and son banquet was a splendid success and an event of profit and enjoyment, is the verdict of the one hundred and eight guests who listened with interest to inspiring talks by J. E. Hill, state supervisor of vocational agriculture, and Leon Robbins, live stock editor of the Wisconsin Agriculturist, and partook of the fine dinner prepared and served by the home economics club at the Antioch high school last Wednesday evening.

Promptly at 7:30 the 108 banqueters sought places about the tables, and after Rev. Kral had asked the blessing, all settled down to real enjoyment of the excellent feed. Rev. Kral got the crowd to singing between the courses, and splendid music by the high school orchestra added greatly to the evening's pleasure.

Schwenk Makes Welcome Address.

With the business of eating and singing off their minds, William Schwenk, president of the ag. club, made the address of welcome and told of the progress of the ag. club during the past year in introducing pedigreed seeds and pure bred live stock, stating that the club is now in position to finance any member who wishes to introduce more pedigreed seed or pure bred live stock. In closing his remarks, William introduced Mr. Kuhl as toastmaster.

John A. Thain is Honored.

As master of ceremonies, Mr. Kuhl's first act was to present a certificate of recognition to Mr. John A. Thain, the testimonial being presented to Mr. Thain in recognition of his many years of valuable service to the cause of agricultural. Each year the department of agriculture of the Antioch Township high school is to confer honorary recognition upon some person who has rendered signal service to agriculture.

It was in 1845 that the grandfather of Mr. Thain located on the shores of Mill Creek, one mile north of Millburn, and he called the place Sunny Hill Farm. It is still known by that name. Mr. Thain is now associated with his son in the operation of the farm, a tract of 180 acres where pure bred Shorthorn cattle and Shropshire sheep are raised. Farming has been a success for the Thains. It is interesting to note that Sunny Hill has been the home of five generations of Thains.

In 1855 the grandfather of the man honored Wednesday night took an active part in the organization of the Millburn Mutual Insurance Company, and the grandson, John A. Thain, was for 21 years the secretary of the Company, and for the past five years its president. He has seen many years service as director of his home school district and ever since the organization of the Antioch township high school he has been a faithful member of the board of education.

Rev. Kral, Mr. Minto, Mr. Sablin and Louis Gallagher were among the local men who responded to the toastmaster's requests for "speech."

Leon Robbins, live stock editor of the Wisconsin Agriculturist, was the next speaker. His subject was "Live Stock and Permanent Agriculture." He told of the time when several Wisconsin men got together and devised a way to change Wisconsin from a grain state into a dairy state. Wisconsin now leads in the dairy industry.

Prof. J. E. Hill, state supervisor of vocational agriculture, was the next speaker introduced, and his subject was "Vocational Agriculture in Illinois and Its Results." Mr. Hill, in the course of his remarks, set forth the many advantages of vocational agriculture as taught in Illinois high schools. Such a course offers the opportunity to put into actual practice the things learned in the class room, besides teaching patience and many projects proving to be financially profitable to students. Before vocational courses offered in high schools, Mr. Hill explained, only two students out of 100 went to college, and the whole high school course was directed toward the preparation of those two. The other 98 went back to the farm or the shop without any preparation for their life's work. Times have changed for the better, according to Prof. Hill, and now because of vocational courses offered, the high school has become a much more valuable institution than ever before.

The Home Economics girls and the members of the high school orchestra were given a rising vote of thanks for their part in making the fourth annual father and son banquet the splendid success it was.

Somervilles Honored on Silver Anniversary

Popular Bakery and Restaurant Has Been Antioch Institution for Quarter of a Century.

The silver anniversary of an honorable and very successful business career extending over a period of a quarter of a century was very fittingly observed Monday at the T. A. Somerville bakery and restaurant, where hundreds of friends called during the day and evening to extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Somerville upon their completion of 25 years in business here. In the evening about one hundred guests assembled at the store, where five hundred was played until a late hour.

Party Celebrates Event.

Flowers were there in profusion, and the place looked very beautiful, indeed, decorated with these tokens of friendship and esteem. Mr. and Mrs. Somerville gave very appropriate souvenirs in the form of cherry clusters and small potted cherry trees, the day being Washington's birthday. Numbers of new music rolls were played for the first time on the fine unit-orchestra, and Harold Johnson, of Marengo, a nephew of Mr. Somerville, favored the guests by singing several selections. The evening was one of great pleasure to all, and Mr. and Mrs. Somerville feel very grateful to those who honored them on this occasion.

Gave Meritorious Service.

But the party in celebration of the event is not the big news—it is the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Somerville have completed twenty-five years of business service to the community. It is an old and very true saying that one gets out of a business, or his life, just about what he puts into it, and that no business that does not render a genuine service can long survive. That Somervilles have rendered such a service is attested by the fact that their business has been successful, and through courteous and efficient business methods during all the years they have made hosts of friends and gained for themselves a reasonable financial independence.

Established in 1902.

The Somerville bakery was established here in 1902, when Mr. Somerville came from Chicago and established his business in the old opera house building, where the first National Bank now stands. After being in that location for two years, the bakery was moved to the block building where they had their business home for eighteen years. In 1922 Mr. Somerville bought the seven acre tract of land from Miss Sarah Ingalls, the property having a Main street frontage and extending east to the Soo tracks and also having a frontage on Park avenue. That year the old frame building standing on the lot on Main street was razed and the modern two story brick building was erected. In tearing down the old frame structure which was said to be at least 75 years old, the wreckers of the building found over a hundred pounds of honey in the walls.

A. B. C. Meeting Monday Night

The next regular meeting and dinner of the Antioch Business Club will be on Monday night, Feb. 28, at the Parish Hall. Business relating to advertising, maps, roads, etc., will be the subject for discussion at the meeting.

FARMERS TO STUDY FEEDING DAIRY COW

Former Head Wisconsin Dairy Department Speaks Here Monday.

R. S. Hulce, manager of a large dairy farm at Lake Forest, Illinois, will speak at the Antioch Township High School Monday evening at 8 o'clock on the subject of "Feeding The Dairy Cow."

Mr. Hulce was for many years head of the Dairy Department at the University of Wisconsin. Previous to that he was an instructor at the University of Illinois. He is considered a great cattle judge.

Every dairy man in this community should come and hear Prof. Hulce.

SUICIDE VERDICT IN MURRIE DEATH

Libertyville Man Came to Death by Own Hand, Coroner's Jury Decides.

Verdict of suicide was returned by the coroner's jury following an inquest into the death of Elmer J. Murrie, retired merchant, of Libertyville who fired a bullet into his head while in the garage at his home in that community Saturday morning.

Reason for the act was unexplained when the inquest closed except that it is believed that business matters weighed heavily on his mind resulting in a breakdown. The deceased who was in the employ of the North Shore Gas company as a salesman had been making arrangements for the erection of an oil filling station at the corner of Milwaukee avenue and Lake streets in Libertyville.

Mr. Murrie attended the basketball game in Antioch Friday night and at that time he seemed to be in his usual good spirits, friends here stated.

WILTONS COP PRIZES AT MASQUERADE BALL

Impersonating an aged couple of long ago, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilton won first prize at the Masquerade ball given Tuesday night by the Danish Society at their hall on Ida avenue. The dance was exceptionally well attended and many unique costumes were worn by the dancers. The place was crowded with spectators and all who attended had a very enjoyable time. Music was by Lois White and her boys.

CHANNEL LAKE REUNION AT MERRY GARDEN BALLROOM CHICAGO, NEXT SATURDAY

Edward Gilmartin, known to all local dancers as "Gill," the smiling manager of the Channel Lake Pavilion in the summer time, is now directing manager of the world's famous Merry Garden Ballroom in Chicago which is opened by Ethel Kendall and Jack Lund. "Gill" has arranged to hold the second annual Channel Lake reunion at this palace of terpsichore next Saturday, Feb. 26th.

Last year many of Antioch's dance fans made the trip to Chicago for the reunion, where it is said they had the time of their life meeting all of their summer made friends. So if at any time in the past you have ever lost anything in Channel Lake you might arrange with Pa or Ma to take a ride out and look for it, for according to reports all Channel Lake will be at Merry Gardens next Saturday night.

Two of the dance world's greatest hands will furnish the music for the reunion, Bill Tucker and his all Stars will alternate with Van's Nor-elty Banjo Band. This means that there will be continuous dancing from 8:30 until 1 a. m.

For those who do not intend to drive to Chicago, they can reach the Garden by taking the North Shore to Wilson avenue, Chicago, and transfer to a Wilson avenue "L," leave train at Belmont avenue and walk one half block west to the ballroom. For auto take Milwaukee avenue right into Belmont turn left and go east to Sheffield avenue, the Merry Garden Ballroom is located at Belmont and Sheffield.

1112 LAKE CO. CATTLE TESTED LAST WEEK

Five Veterinarians on Job to Clean up Herds of County.

Lake County is making a record getting started in the testing program to bring their herds up to date.

Monday morning five veterinarians were on the job under the direction of county veterinarian, D. C. Grinnell. Dr. Bolle a state man, was on the job last week. Dr. Grinnell and Bolle tested 1112 head last week.

The new men reporting for work Monday morning are: Dr. C. C. Hawthorth of Montgomery County, Dr. Montgomery of Christian county, and Dr. O. T. Hayer, of LaSalle County.

It takes 35,000 herds to supply Chicago with her milk. A year ago 18,500 of these herds were in Illinois and 6500 in Wisconsin. This year 6500 of these herds are in Illinois and 19,000 are in Wisconsin, the balance are in Indiana. Unless the herds in Illinois in the Chicago milk district are tested at once still a larger amount of the milk will come from Wisconsin.

Annual Farm Bureau Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Farm Bureau was held in the Methodist Church at Libertyville, on Feb. 18th. F. D. Barton, Vice President of the Illinois Agricultural Association impressed his audience with the fact that the farmers must organize and co-operate.

J. C. Spittler, Assistant Leader of Farm Advisors of the University of Illinois gave some very good thoughts on organization in his talk on "Observations He Has Made."

A fine dinner was served by the ladies of the Methodist Church. Several local speakers and Mr. H. C. Vial, of Naperville, were called on at the banquet.

Mr. N. E. Flinn lead the singing at noon. Mrs. Geo. White of Antioch favored the audience with two solos during the afternoon program.

The officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, D. H. Minto, Antioch; Vice President, Willard Darrell, McHenry; Secretary, Gordon Ray, Mundelein; Treasurer, J. A. Huebsch, Mundelein. The directors, Antioch township, Bert Edwards, Newport township, Geo. N. Vose, Waukegan township, Frank Burke, Avon township, E. Harris, Grant township, Lee Henwell, Wauconda township, Wm. Fink, Fremont township, John G. Wirtz, Libertyville township, Leroy Kane, Shields township, Paul Sitz, Vernon township, Chris Jensen, Elia township, Geo. Ernesting, Cuba township, Bert Howland. No nominations were handed in from Lake Villa, Benton and Deerfield. These places are to be filled at the next Executive Committee meeting.

County Seed Day.

All the Farm Bureau members who have seeds of any kind to sell are urged to bring samples of them to the Farm Bureau office, Wednesday, March 2.

Tables will be provided and space reserved for the sellers. Anyone in the county either member or non-member is urged to come and buy your seeds on that day.

Timothy and all clover seeds will be on display besides wheat, oats, barley, corn, seed potatoes.

If you are in the market for any of these seeds come March 2, and make this day a success.

SPRING PAINT JOBS BEGIN

The south room of Dan Harris' cafe is being redecorated. Blir and Felter are doing the work. Mr. Harris plans to install lunch counters in the room when completed, leaving the entire space in the north room for table service.

The front of the Masonic building is being treated to a new coat of paint this week. Huber and Wiedel are the brush wielders.

Simon Stowe, engineer for the Beatregard Construction Co., was called Wednesday to his home in Green Bay, Wis., on account of the sudden death of his father, George Stowe, 72, who died very suddenly Wednesday morning. Mr. Stowe was accompanied to Green Bay by his cousin, Sheldon Stowe.

Felter, a duet by Misses Louise Simons and Virginia Hachmeister; solo Miss Daugh; Marimba Solo, Georgia Ray, of Waukegan; numbers by Antioch high school glee club, and fancy dancing by Ruth Chinn and Francis Danbe. The program will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

STATE TO LET MORE PAVING CONTRACTS

Bids to Be Received March 16 for 108 Miles New Highway.

The 1927 highway construction program is rapidly getting underway, as evidenced by announcement of the State Division of Highways of another large road letting to be held at Springfield on March 16. Bids will be received for 19 sections of pavement, aggregating 103.17 miles in length; 8 sections of grading, aggregating 8.01 miles in length and consisting of 420,220 cubic yards of excavation; also 22 sections of bridge work, aggregating 32 bridges, and including 12,580 cubic yards of concrete and 954,450 lbs. of structural steel. The proposed work is scattered among various counties of the State, and forms important links in the state highway system.

This will be the second letting the Department has held on sections included in the $100,000,000 bond issue. At the first letting, held on January 17, bids were received on 132 miles of pavement, 40 miles of grading and 50 separate bridges. Contracts have been awarded for a number of sections included in that letting, and awards will be made on the remaining sections as rapidly as right of way for their construction is obtained.

In addition to the work on which bids have been received this year, there was awarded last year and carried over into 1927 for construction, a total of 215 miles of pavement, 40 miles of grading and 50 separate bridges. With the award of contracts for all sections included in the two lettings this year, there will be a total under contract of 455 miles of pavement, 83 miles of grading and 132 bridges.

According to C. R. Miller, Director of the Department of Public Works and Buildings and Frank T. Sheets, Chief Highway Engineer, it is the intention to hold additional lettings as rapidly as plans can be prepared. "Now that the various law suits were delaying a start on the new bond issue system have been disposed of," said the officials, "we feel sure that we will be able to carry out another large construction program the coming season. The Division of Highways is bending every effort in the making of surveys and preparation of plans and specifications, and we are confident that the end of 1927 will again see Illinois at the head of all of the States in the mileage of permanent highways constructed during the year. We are making every effort to carry out Governor Small's policies of pushing our second bond issue road construction as rapidly as possible."

CARD PARTY

There will be a "500" card party at the Danish Hall on Ida avenue on Monday night, Feb. 28, at 8 o'clock. Prizes and lunch. Price 25 cents. Everybody welcome. (24p)

TOURNAMENT FINALS TO BE PLAYED HERE

Antioch Entertain Visitors in Season's Most Important Basketball Games.

Loyal Support of Fans and New Gym Are Factors in Selection.

Antioch is to have the honor of entertaining the Finals of Northwest High School Basketball Tournament next Saturday afternoon and evening, and all of the people of Antioch should assist in making the stay of our visitors a pleasure.

The preliminaries will be held on Friday evening, the North Schools at Gurnee and the South Schools at Barrington. The winners in the preliminaries will come to Antioch on Saturday for the championship games.

The schools playing at Gurnee are Libertyville vs. Wauconda; Gurnee vs. Antioch. Those playing at Barrington are Palatine vs. Leyden; Arlington Heights vs. Barrington.

Trophies are to be awarded to first and second place and the three balls used in the tournament are to be given to first, second and third. In addition to these, there will be an award to the player exhibiting the best brand of sportsmanship.

The finals were awarded to Antioch for two reasons; first because of the new gymnasium and second because of the fine support given by the people of Antioch to basketball. We must live up to our reputation.

The afternoon games start at 1:30 and the evening games at 7:30.

If you have suggestions as to how these visitors stay may be made more pleasant call the High School.

Mother of Three Buried Wednesday

Mrs. Earl Horton Survived by Husband and Three Small Children.

One of the most tragic incidents of life was enacted in this community last Sunday when Mrs. Earl Horton passed away at the Lake County General hospital leaving a family of three small children under four years of age.

On account of an attack of pleurisy which developed following a severe cold, she was taken to the hospital Jan. 31. Here under treatment she rallied following an operation of Feb. 11, and was preparing to return to her home here last Sunday when she suffered a relapse and died very suddenly while her husband was on his way to the hospital to bring her home.

Mrs. Horton was before her marriage, Miss Rose H. Paasch, and she was born in the city of Kenosha, Oct. 9, 1899. She was married to Mr. Horton, Dec. 17, 1921, at Waukegan, and to this union three children were born: Helen, age 4, Robert, 2, and Eleanor, 5 months, who survive her. She also leaves her parents, four sisters and six brothers, many other near relatives and a host of friends.

She was a member of the Rebe-kah lodge and also a member of the Royal Neighbors.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. A. M. Kral officiating, assisted by Mr. Pollock, with Mrs. W. Ziegler at the organ. Mrs. Hughes sang favored hymns.

MRS. HOPKINS SPEAKS AT WOMAN'S CLUB MEETING

The Woman's Club meeting on Monday was very well attended, there being about thirty present. The speaker, Mrs. C. C. Hopkins, of Highland Park, described vividly a certain little farm home in Lake county that has been charmingly made over into a home of real beauty and at a comparatively low cost. She then talked a very little of her own work in the Illinois state federation as chairman of the American home department.

Club members say it is a real treat to have a cultured woman of Mrs. Hopkins' type come to their meetings to speak to them and they hope she will favor them with another visit before the year ends.

PROLOGUE—While dependent over the enforced hiding of her fiancé, Jim Dallas, player in self defense of Homer Parkinson, member of an influential family, Sybil Saunders, popular actress is engaged to play Viola in a charity performance of "Twelfth Night" on Gull Island, on the Maine coast. To the company are Sybil's bosom friend, Anne Tracy, Anne's brother Joe, young wastrel, and Aleck Stokes, an actor infatuated with Sybil.

CHAPTER I—After the play, which is a big hit, Wally Shine, official photographer, learns something of the jealousy existing in the company.

CHAPTER II—Hugh Bassett, director of the play, and Anne Tracy's fiancé, tells Joe he has heard he is applying on Sybil in an effort to learn the whereabouts of Jim Dallas and earn the reward offered by the Parkinson family. The boy denies it.

CHAPTER III—Joe Tracy is arranging for a vacation trip. To Anne he betrays his enemy toward Sybil Stokes and to secure privacy they arrange to meet in a small summer house.

CHAPTER IV

Anne packed for a space, then gave it up. She couldn't go on with it, she wanted to be downstairs, not lose one minute of the last evening at Gull Island. Her spirits, oppressed by Joe's behavior, began to bubble again, foam up in sparkling effervescence. She slipped off her negligee and chose her most becoming dress, leaf-green crepe that made her look slim as a reed and turned her skin to ivory. And she figured in front of the glass, studying her reflection this way and that, trying to see herself with new eyes and judge if she was a girl a man might be proud of.

While thus engaged she heard the chug-chug of the launch. It must be Joe going, and anxious to see the departure of that darling and uncomfortable spirit she went to the window. Across the swift-sweeping current the boat came into view, skimming forward like a home-faring bird. Anne leaned over the sill, following it with startled eyes—where was Joe? There was Gabriel in front of the wheel, but in the back—she stretched her neck trying to see to the bottom of the cockpit, there certainly was no one on the seat.

"Oh, could he have missed it?" she groaned and cast up her eyes as if invoking the protection of heaven against such a calamity.

But he couldn't have, he wanted to go, it was his holiday and he thought Gull Island was a heavenly hole. He must have been where she couldn't see him. It was difficult to think where this might be—but he might have been bending down to put something in his suitcase. A chair could have hidden him. She remembered what he had said about leaving his baggage at the living room entrance. If it was still there then he had missed the boat and she ran down stairs, toying with a prayerful earnestness that she would not find it. It was not there. "Then he is gone," she said to herself with a satisfied nod and drew a freer breath. The weight lifted, she went across to the garden where she might find Bassett, and as she covered the space between the doors the picture of the launch rose on her inner vision with Gabriel the only visible occupant.

Bassett was not in the garden, but Shine was, snatching into view from the balcony end. He'd been leaning about, he said, just come up from the Point. They strolled about on the lanes of turf between the massed colors of parterre and border, the air languishingly sweet with the scent of the closing flowers. Then they went in, luxuriously embedding themselves in two vast armchairs. Bassett found them here and tried to look genial at the sight of Shine.

They talked about the moon and moonlight effects. Shine wanted to take some photographs after supper, got the plates against the sea and the silvered bulk of the Point, and he spoke of his flashlight picture, which they'd have as a remembrance of Gull Island. Anne said that was a jolly idea, but she didn't think they'd need a picture to remind them of their stay, and she and Bassett exchanged a smile.

It was still on their lips when a sound came from outside, a single sharp detonation. It fell upon the evening's tranquil hush, sudden and startling, like something alien and unrelated.

"What was that?" said Anne. "Sounds like a shot," Shine thought. "It couldn't be!" Bassett got up. "Nobody has a pistol here and if he had he couldn't use it—one of the special stipulations Driscoll made when he lent us the place."

He moved to the land entrance and looked out.

The door of Mrs. Cornell's room opened on the gallery and Miss Pinkney emerged, Mrs. Cornell behind her. "Mr. Bassett," she cried, a hand on the railing. "Where's Mr. Bassett?" Bassett drew out from under the gallery and looked up at her.

"Did you hear that?"

"I did and I told you that Mr. Driscoll never allowed any shooting on the premises."

"Do you think that was a shot?"

"Well, what else was it?"

Mrs. Cornell, leaning comfortably on the railing, suggested that it might be an auto tire.

This drew a snort from Miss Pinkney.

"How'd a motor get here—swim or fly?" Then to Bassett: "Mr. Driscoll's very strict about that. He won't have the wild game or the gulls disturbed and—"

Bassett interrupted her:

"That's all right, Miss Pinkney. We were given those orders and we've obeyed them. And none of us could shoot here if he wanted to—there's not a pistol in the outfit. Don't you know it's against the law to carry one?"

"Then someone's taken mine," she exclaimed, and straightening up with an air of battle, "I'm coming down."

She left the gallery for the rear stairs, Mrs. Cornell in her wake.

"What does she mean—hers?" Anne asked.

"I don't know what she means," Bassett looked irritated. "It's the first I've heard of it."

"I don't see what there was to shoot at, anyhow," came from Shine.

"Then someone's taken mine," she exclaimed, and straightening up with an air of battle, "I'm coming down."

"What does she mean—hers?" Anne asked.

"I don't know what she means," Bassett looked irritated. "It's the first I've heard of it."

A sound from outside stopped him. It was a cry in a woman's voice, close by.

"What's that?" someone said, and before an answer could come, the cry rose again—a high wailing scream carrying words.

"Sybil! Sybil! Sybil's dead—Sybil's killed!"

A clamorous mingling of voices rose from the group, combined in a single up-swelling note of horror. The men rushed for the entrance and met Flora Stokes. She burst in between them, white as the ghost of Caesar, with her opened mouth a dark cavity.

"Sybil's murdered—dead—shot." Each word was projected in a screaming gasp.

Bassett shouted at her, "Where?" And she waved an arm toward the channel.

"There—from the Point. She's gone—she's dead! She went over into the water. On the top of the cliff. She's murdered—dead—murdered!"

As if she were dead, too, and of no more consequence, they fled past her—a line of people streaming out into the serene evening that held a hideous catastrophe. Only Anne stayed, her face as if overlaid by a coating of white paint. She went to Flora and seized her by the arm.

"What was it?" she whispered. "Who did it?"

The woman looked at her at first as if not knowing who she was. Then jerking her arm free, clasped her hands against the sides of her head and went across the room staring upward and crying out:

"I don't know. I didn't see—It's God's truth, I don't know."

Anne ran after the others.

CHAPTER V

The moon had risen and hung on the edge of the sky like a great disk of white paper. Anne saw the others running this way and that along the edge of the point. A boat was pushing out from the dock, Stokes in it, and, caught by the current, it shot down the gleaming surface of the channel. There were cries in men's voices and Stokes' answer, bell-clear from the water. Then Shine ran by her, back to the house, grim-visaged with staring eyes.

She ran on through the pine wood up the path beyond. Mrs. Cornell met her, tried to speak with chattering teeth, but ended in a scream and fell upon her shoulder. Over her head Anne saw Bassett flying down the slope to the wharf. Then presently boats moving out from Hayworth. They sped back and forth, up and down, swift black shapes that seemed to be executing some complicated maneuvers along the glittering track of moonlight. She was aware of Bassett's figure leaving the wharf and racing to the house, of Shine thudding by and calling:

"They're here already! I got someone on the wire and I told him to go like hell."

Miss Pinkney's voice answered him from the edge of the Point where she stood like a black basalt statue:

"Oh, they're here, all right. Every fellow that has a boat's out. But it's no use; no one who's ever got caught in that current's been found."

Shine muttered an invocation and came to a stop. They all stood speechless staring at the boats—the boats looking for Sybil who half an hour ago was alive like themselves and now was—where?

As soon as he saw the fleet in operation, Bassett ran to the house. He had to find Flora and get fuller information from her before he called up the police, and not seeing her outside, he supposed she was still there. The great room was almost dark. He felt for one of the standard lamps and pulled the string. The rush of light fell directly over her, close to him, sunk in an armchair, as still as if she, too, had ceased to live. He had expected difficulties in getting a coherent statement from her, but she told him what she had seen, briefly and clearly, as if she had known he was coming and was ready for him.

She had skirted the island and come to that part of the path which faced the Point. A hollow intervened, extending to the water's edge in a mass of shelving rock. Across this hollow she saw Sybil appear on the end of the Point, coming up from the opposite side, and almost immediately heard the shot. Sybil had thrown up her arms, staggered forward and gone over the bluff. It all happened in a flash and Flora, though describing herself as dazed, had run down the path into the hollow and out on the rocks thinking she could catch her. But she saw the body go swirling by—far out of her reach, caught and borne along in the current. She had watched it, stunned, then had come to her senses and staggered back to the shore—and ran to the house. On the way there she had seen no one and heard nothing.

Bassett left her and went to the library to call up Forestville, the county seat. It was the starting point for hunting parties to New Brunswick, and Bassett, a sportsman in his leisure hours, had stayed there several times assembling his guides and gear. On his last trip, two years ago, trouble with a guide had brought him in contact with the sheriff, Abel Williams. Over legal wrangling they had struck up a friendship and he remembered Williams as a man of some capacity, straight and fair-minded. If he was still in office it would simplify matters; to start out with confidence in the director would be a vital gain. He waited, the receiver against his ear, a foot drumming on the carpet, then a deep and growling voice burred along the wire. It was Abel Williams.

Williams would be down as soon as he could, with Mr. Rawson, the district attorney—an hour and a half to two hours, the roads being bad. The shore people had been told it was an accident—that's all right, couldn't hold an inquest anyway without a body and it was a good thing to keep 'em off. Better not let anything come out till they'd got the situation in hand, easy to fix at that end as the United American Press man was off fishing. They'd do a good deal better if the press was held off for a spell. Seeing where the island was and that there was no one on it but their own crowd, it would be possible to keep things out of the public eye till they had the work well started.

Bassett looked at his watch—nearly eight—probably two hours to wait. The best thing he could do was to get them together and keep them as quiet as he could. As he went down the path his mind collected and marshaled in order the facts he would have to present. They had all been in the house except Stokes on the balcony and Flora walking round the island. Stokes eaten into by a hopeless love, Flora on fire with jealousy and hate—passions that make for murder. "God, what's going to be the end of this?" he groaned to himself.

He found them in a group near the pine grove, excitedly conferring together. Stokes had just returned with the electric torch and they were preparing to search the ground for footprints. Bassett brought their activities to an end and shepherd them to the house. With dragging feet and lowered heads they trailed up the path and filed into the living room.

Here, under the radiance of the lights, they looked at one another as if expecting to see startling changes and fell groaning into chairs, or sat, stiff and upright, with rigid muscles. Bassett had told them when the authorities might be expected and as the hour drew near, dread of the drama in which they found themselves stifled their tongues. The sea breeze, freighted with the acrid odors of uncovered mud and seaweed, blew through the room. Bassett rose and closed the garden door, and eyes shifted to him, hung on his hand as it slid the bolt.

NASH

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

New Light Six
De Luxe
$1085
f. o. b. factory

Beauty and Luxury without an Equal in the whole $1000 Field

By long odds the most distinguished motor car ever introduced into the $1000 field, this Nash De Luxe Light Six is also the most remarkable performer.

Along with its notable beauty and classic body craftsmanship it has the vital superiority of a 7-bearing crankshaft motor—the ultra-modern type.

That gives you a superlative advantage over the standard 3 or 4-bearing motor in the way of matchless quietness and phenomenal smoothness through the full range of speed and power.

Colorfully finished in exquisite blue lacquer, with the lighter body shade contrasting smartly with the darker tone of upper body and fenders, and enhanced with a wealth of refinements and appointments it stands out as a motor car value clearly above and beyond comparison.

The attractiveness of the interior is enriched with a walnut finished instrument board and window ledges, and choice upholstery of genuine Chase Velmo Mohair Velvet.

Headlamps as well as cowl lamps are executed in the bullet design. The steering wheel is of real Circassian walnut.

There are bumpers in front and bumpers at the rear, and a motor mount surmounts the winged radiator cap. 4-wheel brakes and 5 disc wheels are also included as standard equipment within the price.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"MIND" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientists, Sunday, February 20.

The Golden Text was from James 1:5, "If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out! For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who hath been his counselor? For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever. Amen." (Romans 11:33, 34, 36).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The world would collapse without Mind, without the Intelligence which holds the winds in its grasp. Neither philosophy nor skepticism can hinder the march of the Science which reveals the supremacy of Mind" (p. 200).

Andrew Jackson's Politics

Andrew Jackson is popularly supposed to have started the modern Democratic party. It was to a large extent the successor of the Jeffersonians. But Old Hickory himself did not apply the name "Democratic" to his followers. During his Presidency and after his retirement to the Hermitage, in all his correspondence he called himself a Republican and spoke of his party as the Republican party.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Baptism by Sprinkling

The rite of baptism by sprinkling or pouring is supposed to have originated either in the Second or Third century and is alluded to in the writings of Cyprian, who gave his opinion that in the case of those who were sick or unable to endure the rite of immersion it was a lawful baptism.

St. Ignatius' Church Notes

Episcopal Kalendar—Quinquagesima Sunday Wednesday, Ash Wednesday, beginning of Lent.

Mr. Dixon will report the message of the speakers at the sectional meeting of the Bishop's Crusade at Lake Forest this Thursday evening for the benefit of those who are unable to attend. The sermon topic will be, "Why Lent?"

Next Wednesday is Ash Wednesday and marks the beginning of the Lenten Season. There will be the historic Service of Ashes in the Church at seven-thirty in the evening. The Rev. Fr. Crossman Rector of St. Ann's Church Chicago will officiate and preach the Lenten call. Fr. Crossman is one of the youngest and most successful Rectors in the Diocese and was a dear friend and classmate of the late Rev. Victor Brock. It is hoped that in the midst of the busy world that we have Antioch that at least for the next forty days there may be some measure of self concern as to personal character in the spirit of Christian introspection. The beautiful and ancient Service of Ashes is a fine way to begin Lent. You are welcome.

The Spirit of Lent is Penitence for one's failures in the Spirit of Christ who loved God and His fellowman. Not only for the sins of commission, but also for the sins of omission. Most of our sins are things such as acts of kindness that we fail to do. A Bible Verse that shows the spirit of Lent is found in St. Luke's Gospel, Chapter 1, verse 17: "The spirit of the Lord is upon me, and he has anointed me to preach the Gospel to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim that the Kingdom of God is at hand. He has anointed me to baptize with the Holy Spirit and to preach the Gospel to all creation. For I have been sent to baptize with water, but I baptize with the Holy Spirit and to preach the Gospel to all creation. For I have been sent to baptize with water, but I baptize with the Holy Spirit and to preach the Gospel to all creation. For I have been sent to baptize with water, but I baptize with the Holy Spirit and to preach the Gospel to all creation." "Is it nothing to you, all ye that pass by? Behold, and see if there be any sorrow like unto my sorrow which is done unto me—is it nothing to you, all ye that pass by?"

Methodist Notes

The Sunday evening services at the Methodist Episcopal Church continue to hold interest as is shown by the large numbers attending. Last Sunday an illustrated lecture on the life of Lincoln and Washington was most interesting. After the lecture Rev. Krahf read Ida Tarbell's book "He knew Lincoln," which was greatly enjoyed by all.

Sunday morning a new class for young folks in their twenties will be organized. There has been a demand for this class for some little time and a goodly number are looking for. The hour is set for nine thirty and will meet in the main auditorium for the present. All interested in further study of the Bible will please be present.

The young boys and girls are looking forward to the confirmation class which will be instituted shortly and continue until Easter when all who pass a successful examination will be permitted to unite with the church and make their first communion. Parents will please see the pastor regarding their child's membership in the class. Parents, here is the opportunity you have been waiting for to have your child properly instructed in the greatest cause of Christianity.

The work of the Sunday school is going along nicely. The banquet was well attended last week, over eighty sat down to dinner and remained for the program. Mrs. L. Watson rendered a reading which was greatly enjoyed. Mr. Richards acted as toastmaster and called on Mr. Pollock, Mr. McGee and Mr. Krahf to speak from their experience in the Sunday school. These talks were appreciated.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

Washington's Birthday comes around every year to remind us not merely of the greatness of Washington, but more particularly of the greatness of the ideals upon which our country was founded. George Washington is rightly numbered among the great men of all time. His fame is secure and will remain secure as long as our republic endures.

On his birthday we pay a national tribute to the Father of his country. We recall again his rare qualities of mind and heart, his indomitable courage, his superb generalship, his constructive statesmanship, his staunch patriotism, and his unselfish ambition. Whispered scandals about his private life resurrected by petty scribblers out of the refuse of history, may fill us with disgust and loathing that men can be so base and ignoble as thus to attempt to vilify a great name and cast unwarranted aspersions upon a spotless reputation, but they cannot dwarf the true estimate that the American people have formed of their first President. He still remains, first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen.

Washington stands today upon a serene and lofty height. He gazes down upon us across the intervening years with an air of impenetrable reserve. As we study that majestic countenance, we seem to feel that he is watching us. The eyes filled with patriotic fervor, appear ready to glow with commendation or flame with condemnation according as we conform to, or depart from the stern ideals of Americanism he has established for us.

These ideals shine through the life and character of Washington, and are embodied in the state papers and letters that he has bequeathed as a precious legacy to us his heirs and successors. To us too is entrusted the charge of passing on to those who will come after us these same ideals undimmed and untarnished. There are tendencies asserting themselves today, that if allowed to run their course will draw us away from the fixed principles of democratic government upon which our institutions have been founded. The most obvious and this most sinister are the spacious pleas for further centralization of power in the federal government and the invasion of personal liberty. These may fill us with dismay and apprehension. But only for a time. For the heart of the American people is still sound and beats in sympathy with the ideals and principles of Washington. Ultimately democracy will triumph over despotism. In the meanwhile we need to hold fast to what we have received from the generations of patriotic heroes of whom Washington was one of the first and certainly the greatest. If we are to remain a nation of liberty loving, law abiding citizens we must be guided by the ideals and principles that Washington so zealously guarded and so nobly exemplified.

A LOOKER ON

MILLBURN

Miss Ruble Gillings spent several days with Mrs. C. E. Denman last week.

Mrs. D. B. Webb is slowly gaining from an attack of the flu, but is still confined to her bed. Her daughter, Mrs. Earl Edwards is taking care of her.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott LeVoy and son James attended the funeral of Mr. August Wienecke, at Barrington, on Sunday.

Miss Chase, of Indiana, visited from Friday until Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Bartler, while enroute to Pennsylvania.

The epidemic of chicken-pox in our school is nearly over, but it is being succeeded by measles. Marion Edwards and Roy Bonner have the measles.

The community was shocked on Saturday morning to hear of the death of Elmer Murrie, of Libertyville, who was very well known in this community. Funeral services were held from his home in Libertyville at 1:30 on Tuesday afternoon with burial at Millburn.

Archle Webb is working in Waukegan.

The funeral services of George Strang, of Marshfield, Wisconsin, were held in Millburn Church, Monday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. Bartter officiating. Mr. Strang is survived by his widow, and one son Frank, of Amarillo, Texas, and one brother and two sisters, Eugene Strang, of California, Mrs. W. B. Stewart, of Waukegan, but now in St. Petersburg, Florida, and Mrs. Thomas Anderson, of Waukegan.

The entertainment consisting of readings, violin solos, limericks and Hawaiian Steel Guitar music given at the church on Monday night was well attended and much enjoyed by all. The musicians were classmates of Mr. Bartter at the Seminary, and were giving their services in behalf of the Christian Endeavor Society.

Miss Grace Slocum, of Waukegan, spent Sunday at home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Fuller, spent Sunday at Millburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gould, of Lake Villa, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Olson, of Waukegan, attended the entertainment at the church Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bruckner attended the funeral of her brother, Peter Petersen, at Burlington on Tuesday.

PASSENGER AIRPLANE

ATTACKED BY FIRE SUNDAY

For the first time in the history of Waukegan the members of the local fire department were called out Sunday afternoon, February 13, at two o'clock to extinguish a fire that had attacked an airplane.

The plane was the property of Frank Van Duzer of 803 Linden avenue, Waukegan. The damage to the plane was fixed at $300.

A grass fire is blamed for the fire that for a time it was feared would completely destroy the plane. The fact that the tank on the plane contained five gallons of high test gasoline caused considerable fear of an explosion.

The grass fire was burning quite fiercely before it was discovered and already had attacked the plane. Van Duzer fought the fire until the fire department arrived and in this way held down the loss. The fire had progressed to a point within thirty feet of a barn on the Van Duzer place when the firemen arrived.

The plane is one that Van Duzer has been using to take up passengers and a number of local people have ridden in it. The owner had partly dismantled it because of the winter weather, having removed the wheels and wings and storing the rest of the plane in his back yard. He did not carry any insurance on it.—Waukegan Sun.

STOCKMAN SEES PROSPERITY FOR HOG RAISERS THIS YEAR

"A common figure paid at farm sales for shoats is 15c to 20c a pound and up," a prominent hog raiser said recently. "The paying of big prices is perhaps speculative except where the pigs are bought to follow cattle."

Spring pigs will be good property, in the opinion of the stockman, unless all signs fail, and this spring's crop will be the most profitable of any during the past six years.

"The government report based on the mail carrier survey (of course the government figures maybe wrong, but they haven't been so very far off at any time on the annual pig crop survey) is well supported by what has been happening in the markets the past year, and recently the markets show declining hog population.

"There is more or less of a gamble in everything the farmer grows, so why not stake a little on the out-

NEW METHODIST PARSONAGE OPENED TO THE PUBLIC

Rev. and Mrs. Krali entertained the folks of the community last Wednesday on the occasion of the official opening of the new Methodist Parsonage on Lake street. A committee of ladies of the Aid were present and acted as assistant hostesses, serving tea and acting as guides for the many who came to admire the beautiful building. Those remembering the old parsonage were amazed because of the change which has taken place and were loud in their praises.

The new parsonage has eight rooms, the study, or what the pastor calls his workshop, is at the right of the door as one enters, most convenient in all its appointments with its built-in-book-cases made especially for the study by Mr. A. G. Watson, our local cabinet maker. The Spanish arches which set off the living room as well as the open stairway greet the newcomer with real welcome. The dining room leading off the living room, yet separated by beautiful French Doors with built in China cabinets and window seats, were greatly admired. Passing thru at entryway into the kitchen with its white enamel walls, built in pantry and sinks, fully equipped with broom closets and clothes shoots as well as the electrical range, installed by Mr. Lux, was the source of much favorable comment. Many remarked that preparing meals and working in the kitchen was no longer a drudgery but a source of inspiration.

The winding stairs leading to the bath and chambers is a thing of beauty. The art of the plumber, Mr. Lowry, was greatly praised, as the bath room is so well arranged with ample light, especially were the needs of the man thought of by placing special lighting fixtures for toilet preparation. The three chambers are finished in white enamel. The lighting effects installed by Mr. Lux attracted much attention and the fixtures were admired by all.

The basement was not especially attractive to the men who came but the women were highly pleased with it. Here again the art of the plumber was visible. The furnace installed by Mr. Lowry, with a nearness to the wood and coal bins, the set tubs for washing brought forth the remarks that all would come to the parsonage on wash day. All were assured a ready welcome provided Mrs. Krali was given the use of the tubs from seven until eight in the morning, as that is the average time for washing an average size family washing when one has everything convenient. The garage is complete, although much warmer weather is needed to thaw the yard that it may be put into shape.

look of pigs? It looks like a seven to one shot that we are coming into a time of pig scarcity. If so, then you would kick yourself for not having a couple of sows.

"It is my belief that if the farmers here in our northern counties had not been so strong in the milk game and kept a few sows they would have been a lot better off right now. When a good many farmers have had their herd of cows T. H. tested, they find themselves cut out of an income, so he on the look-out for bred sows, no matter what color, black, white, or red.

Elsewhere in this issue, you will find a bred sow sale, only a short drive from home.

Criticism's Object

The legitimate aim of criticism is to direct attention to the excellent. The bad will dig its own grave, and the imperfect may safely be left to that final neglect from which no amount of present undeserved popularity can rescue it.—Boyer.

High School Notes

Excitement runs high among the students over the prospect of having the basketball team entered in the district tournament at Whitewater next week. This is an honor which has never before come to the school and it is only because of the splendid record of eight consecutive victories that the team being given consideration among the larger teams of the district.

Friday night will undoubtedly be the last opportunity for the local fans to see the team in action. Waterford comes here, full of hope and determination, after twice defeating the strong Burlington team. A large crowd is expected at the game to see Captain McDougall, "Sally" Frank Chuck Jurevick, and Leo Letting play their last games for their school, after a long and illustrious career. To these four men must be given a large share of the credit for making the season one of the school's most successful. They have made records that many will envy, but few will equal.

Plans are already being made for a track team. Although this sport is comparatively new to the school in is being received with enthusiasm. Plans are now under way to arrange meets with other schools. Men who should show promise are Lyle McDougall in the dashes and broad jump; "Chuck" Jurevick and Fred Forster in the distance runs; Tyler Letting and Forster in the weights; Feigel in the high jump, and Dix in the pole vault. As soon as the weather permits, the men will be out for practice.

Allendale School

Allendale Farm School, Lake Villa

On Saturday afternoon two teams representing the Evanston Junior Press Club traveled to Allendale to meet double defeat by overwhelming scores. The Allendale 95's defeated the Evanston 95's by a 46 to 3 count. Schneider and George Kee each scored 5 baskets for high honors.

In all games played by the 95's this season, the little fellows have scored more than 40 points per game. On this team no player weighs over 100 pounds.

In the second game of the afternoon the Allendale first team defeated the Evanston Press Club by a 54 to 5 score. Wittkind scored 19 points and Villink 15 points for the home team.

Thursday evening (tonight) the Allendale 95's play the Waukegan Y. M. C. A. Indians, champion 110 pound team of Waukegan. Last season Allendale defeated the Waukegan lads by a 25 to 22 score at Waukegan. This game will be played at 7:15 o'clock, as a preliminary game for the Lake Villa-Waukegan Y. M. C. A. big team game.

On Saturday afternoon the Allendale 95's play at Lake Forest, against the Young Men's Club.

On Saturday night Allendale plays the True-Blue Y-Nots at Evanston. The latter team is twice winners of the A. A. U. tournaments, and defeated Allendale earlier in the season by a 25 to 21 score.

Libertyville High School lights play at Allendale on Tuesday evening, March 1.

Mrs. Harry Nickerson spent a couple days last week with friends in Chicago.

Miss Mabel Scott went Friday afternoon to her home in Plymouth, Wis., for a visit over the week end, and as Tuesday was a legal holiday, she took the opportunity of visiting some schools near there. Miss Warner also went to her home at Whitewater, and also used Monday as visiting day.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Culver, Mr. Everett Culver, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Douglas attended the funeral of Mr. Cicero Allen, at Grayslake, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Clifford Shanks, last Saturday. Mr. Allen was born and raised on the farm now known as Allendale. His body was laid to rest in the Allen family plot in Angola Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmington, of Round Lake, called on their daughter, Mrs. Lee Sherwood and family on Saturday.

Mrs. Harry Nickerson spent a couple days last week with friends in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Douglas, of Chicago, were guests of his parents here over the week end.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold its regular meeting on Wednesday, March 2nd, with Mrs. B. J. Hooper, and every lady in the village has a cordial invitation to attend. The ladies are busy now at a contest selling cleaners and the meetings are very interesting.

Mrs. L. J. Tweed who has been quite ill, is able to be about once more.

Our village was shocked Saturday morning by the news of the death of Elmer Murrie, who has friends here by the score, who mourn his passing, and extend to his family their heartfelt sympathy.

Mrs. Dalrymple is improving after her recent illness.

Ellen Nader, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nader, had a fright last week Wednesday, when in crossing the street near her home, she did not notice the car which was coming, and before it could be stopped, although going slowly she was hit and knocked down, though not injured. Some men from Highland Park were driving and they stopped to see if any harm was done.

The Joe Hucker home is under quarantine for scarlet fever, and Joe Jr., is the afflicted one. He is doing quite well.

Mrs. Sophia Hall, of Chicago, spent the first of the week with her sister, Mrs. S. M. Sherwood.

Peter Peterson, who has been living at the home of his brother, Henry Peterson for some time, and taking treatments, passed away Saturday morning, and the body was taken to Burlington, his home, for burial. Pneumonia was the direct cause of his death. His wife and two children, besides his brothers, Henry and Will, of Lake Villa, and several sisters, Mrs. Harold Dixon, Mrs. Carl Bruckner, Eleanor and Caroline, also two sisters in Racine, and Burlington, besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Peterson, of Racine, are left to mourn. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family.

Mrs. Hugh McCann is still very ill at her home here. She was taken to Waukegan, Saturday for an X-ray examination, but is being cared for at her home here. She is improving slowly.

Mr. Wallace who lives at Grayslake celebrated his 89th birthday last Friday and the members of his family gathered at the home for a family party. Those from here who attended were the Will Fish family, the Ollie Wallace and Sidney Wallace families. Their parents have been married for 63 years.

Mrs. Albert Kappie and Edwin were Waukegan visitors on Saturday.

Important Waterway

The Suez canal, opened in 1869, has a length of 101 miles, and a minimum width of 147 feet, 8 inches. The maximum draught of water allowed for vessels using the canal is 32 feet. The average time for transit through the canal is 15 hours 20 minutes. The canal is owned by a company, and Great Britain holds a controlling interest in the company.

Polar Region Cold

Theoretically it can never get much colder than 60 degrees below zero at the North pole, which lies in deep ocean. The cold pole of the northern hemisphere, far from coinciding with the North pole, is believed to be on the continent of Asia north of Iceland, where the temperature is said occasionally to fall to 90 degrees below zero F.

Secret of Big Light Beam

In huge electric searchlights that cast beams visible for 50 or 60 miles on clear nights, the carbons are not like those of ordinary arc lamps. Instead, the electrodes are curved carbons containing chemicals in the cores. The main source of light is a small body of gas contained in the crater at the end of the positive electrode. This crater of gas quadruples the strength of the beam.

So Talking Is Hot Air

A physicist has calculated that if 1,000,000 persons were to talk steadily and the energy of their voices were converted into heat, they would have to talk an hour and a half to produce enough heat to make a cup of tea.

Sea Superstitions

We are inclined to the notion of authority for the belief that kingfishers cast a spell upon the deep, so that calm weather prevails during the "hazy days," about the time of the winter solstice. Old sailors object to the presence of a cat on board ship, because she "carries a gale in her tail."—Exchange.

Hermit's Cells Remain

The mountains near the city of Jericho, says one who explored many of them, "are absolutely honeycombed by the cells of ancient anchorites and hermits from top to bottom." Some of these contain frescoes and inscriptions of much interest, dating back to the earliest years of the Christian era.

Life's Law

Life yields her rewards to those who work for them. If you plant cabbage, don't expect to pick roses, for the laws of life are exact, and never deviate the slightest bit. Your life will shape itself according to the mental pattern which you shaped for it.

A Hint

The photographer was taking a picture of a newly married pair and there was some difficulty in getting the right expression. "Too strained," he complained; "too strained. Don't think of each other all the time. Just look pleasant."

Where Iris Is Found

There are about 875 species of iris. They are chiefly natives of temperate climates. Iris versicolor, the large blue flag, is common in wet places throughout the United States as far west as Minnesota and Arkansas.

WHEN RADIO TURNS NAVIGATOR

Radio Direction Finder Guides and Locates Vessels at Sea in Fair and Foul Weather.

"Unable to give position—last bearings taken three days ago—we're lost!"

Thus reads the terse but dramatic message from a ship in distress. Out in the blackness of the night, pitching and tossing on waves stirred to a frenzy by the wintry gale, are fellow mariners and passengers, far off the traveled ocean lanes and all but lost save for the slender thread of radio communication.

"Keep sending us test signals," flashes back our operator. "Will locate by direction finder." And so the latest wonder of marine radio and the newest aid to modern navigation is brought into play.

Soon our operator is at the radio direction finder in the pilot house. A moment later he is wearing the headphones and manipulating the receiver dial. He begins turning the hand-wheel, which serves to swing the small loop frame on the deck above into the very teeth of the angry gale. The operator listens intently; the captain and other silent stand nearby; the swings of the hand wheel become shorter and shorter. Here it is—the line of signals—the direction of their passage through space from the radiating point! But on which side of our ship—in what sense? Now the operator throws a switch, swings the hand-wheel again. The swings become shorter until they virtually stop. The operator now bends down as he peers through a magnifying glass, squinting an eye so as to line up the parallel lines which will give an accurate reading from the compass card below. Then he gives the reading to the pilot of the ship. A few moments later the course is changed, and the ship throbs to the command of full speed ahead in the face of a heavy sea.

How Compass Works

One hour, two hours, three hours—and our ship comes within searchlight range of the vessel in distress. A rescue is out of the question in such a rough sea, but we stand-by, ready to act if absolutely necessary.

Just as the dog turns his ears in determining the direction of sounds, so does the radio direction finder turn its loop to get a bearing on a given transmitter. This ingenious radio device operates on the principle that a given signal of maximum intensity will be received with a loop so placed that its plane is pointing at the radio station which is transmitting. If, on the other hand, the plane of the loop lies at right angles to the direction of the radio transmitter, no energy is picked up and nothing can be heard in the earphones. The position at which the signal drops out, or so-called minimum, is well defined and is employed in reading the direction of the transmitting station from the compass card.

The standard marine direction finder, as now installed on many ships, is entirely self-contained and occupies less than two square feet of floor space. On the deck, above the pilot house or chart room, is the sturdy tripod frame supporting the loop which is encased in bakelite tubing with aluminum alloy fittings. The protective tubing of the loop measures 4 1/2 inches in diameter, while the loop measures 30 inches on a side. A 2 to 1 reduction gear, operating by the vertical hand-wheel, serves to swing the loop in all directions, even in high gales, without backlash or interference.

Service Now Universal

So important is the direction finder in navigation that radio beacons, like lighthouses and lightships, have come into existence along our coasts as infallible guides to coastwise and trans-oceanic and lake navigators. These radio beacons, operated by the U. S. Lighthouse Service, now extend up and down the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, along the Gulf of Mexico, and on the Great Lakes, as well as in Alaska and Hawaii.

Operated on regular schedule, the radio beacons are also pressed into service when weather conditions warrant steady operation. Operating on 1,000 meters wavelength assigned for such radio transmission by international regulation, the ICW or interrupted continuous wave transmitters employed send out signals that vary in note and in character, so that each beacon may be readily identified. Heretofore, all radio beacons have been operated at the same time, causing considerable and troublesome interference because of the unified wavelength. This interference has been eliminated, however, through the use of synchronized clock switches, which now cause each radio beacon to transmit alone for a given time, so that just one beacon will be sending out direction finding signals in a given locality.

"Invariably, navigators are enthusiastic in their praise of the direction finder, which, in many cases, has taken precedence over the time-honored sextant in determining a ship's position, even when ideal weather prevailed," according to T. M. Stevens of the Radio Corporation of America. "In foggy and cloudy weather, of course, the radio direction finder serves to solve what has hitherto been a serious predicament. Where soundings are impractical along steep coasts, because of great depths a short distance off shore, navigators have used the radio direction finder and their known speed in guiding their ships along."

Night to Be Remembered

The "Big Wind" occurred in Ireland on the night of January 9, 1882. In Limerick, Galway and Athlone hundreds of houses were blown down and hundreds more were burned by the spreading of fires from those blown down. It was called "The Big Wind," because it is the worst of its kind known to the people of Ireland.

Found in Tobacco Leaves

Tobacco leaves when submitted to chemical analysis yield nicotine, which is its most characteristic constituent; albumin, a gluten-like substance; gum, resin, malic and citric acids, and a large amount of inorganic constituents. 100 parts of the dry leaf yielding from about 13 to 27 per cent of ash, in which potash, lime and silica predominate.

Recipe for Success

Find out where the money is and get there as quickly as you can and when you get there get all you can get there and then get out of there with all you could get out of those that are there before those that are there get out of you all that you got there after you got there. Kansas City Star.

A Difficulty of Middle Age

Perhaps the hardest task for a middle-aged man to think he feels just as young as he used to be is just after he has gone up a couple of flights of stairs at a fairly brisk pace. This is a fair trial. State Journal.

Driven, Not Drivers

Some persons follow the dictates of their conscience, only in the same sense in which a coachman may be said to follow the horses he is driving. Whately.

Foiling the Scandalmongers

Put it out of the power of any one truly to report you not to be a sincere or a good man; let your practice give the lie; that is all very feasible, for, pray, who can hinder you from being just or sincere? To make all sure, you should resolve to live no longer than you can live honestly; for, in a word, reason would rather you were nothing than a knave. Marcus Aurelius.

Beautiful Dream

When a pedestrian feels gloomy he might try imagining Gulliver living today as a pedestrian and sticking cars in his overcoat pockets, with wildly costumed drivers dangle from the windows. Louisville Courier-Journal.

Rival of the Sun

The hottest open flame known is the oxyacetylene flame, 6,300 degrees Fahrenheit, according to an answered question in Liberty.

Louisiana's Emblem

The librarian of the State Historical society of Louisiana says that he finds that in 1813 a Nashville notice reads, "Louisiana has chosen a pelican for her seal, because it is said it tears its breast to feed its young."

Avoid Disappointing It

"The moderate use of chewing gum may lead to stomach disorders," says a physician. "This is easily understandable. When the jaws begin to work the stomach naturally looks for something to come down, and gets puffed if it doesn't."—Boston Transcript.

Temptation to Ghosts

If the dead can come back and move tables, why don't they tip over some of the hideous bronzes erected to them?—Detroit News.

Lack Stability

Fortunes made in no time are like ships made in no time; it's ten to one if they hang long together. Douglas Jerrold.

It Has Happened

A man is not always known by the company he associates with—as the company sometimes discovers to its cost. Exchange.

Benefit of Title

A fool, indeed, has great need of a title; it teaches him to call him count or duke, and thus forget his proper name of fool. J. L. Brown.
